PUBLICATION INFORMATION

The Columbia Journal of Asian Law is published twice a year, Winter and Summer, by students of the Columbia University School of Law, under the auspices of the Center for Chinese Legal Studies, the Center for Japanese Legal Studies, and the Center for Korean Legal Studies. The successor to the Journal of Chinese Law, which commenced publication in 1987, the Columbia Journal of Asian Law provides a forum for legal practitioners and scholars from Asia, the United States, and elsewhere to discuss the broad range of issues that relate to law in the countries of Asia. The Journal gratefully acknowledges the generous grant from the Parker School of Foreign and Comparative Law, which made the establishment of the Journal possible.

The Columbia Journal of Asian Law welcomes the submission of multidisciplinary, historical, and comparative manuscripts, as well as those describing and analyzing aspects of contemporary law and practice. Submissions should be typed, double-spaced, with adequate margins. Manuscripts must be submitted electronically via e-mail to: jrnasian@law.columbia.edu. Footnotes and other citations should follow the style outlines in The Bluebook: A Uniform System of Citation (19th ed., 2010). References to non-English language sources should be detailed and the reference materials included if not in circulation. Please include the author's name and biographical information on a separate page.

The price of an annual subscription to the Columbia Journal of Asian Law is U.S. $50.00 (personal)/$100 (institutional) (domestic and Canada) or U.S. $55.00 (personal)/$105 (institutional) (overseas). All correspondence should be sent to:
